FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CODE OF ETHICS INVESTIGATION INITIATED

Hanley, SK, (May 7, 2024) – The Town of Hanley’s Council has initiated a Code of Ethics investigation in response to six separate complaints. Town Council had the option to form a committee or hire a third-party investigator to review the complaints and complete the investigation. They chose to hire a third-party investigator.

Bloom Centre for Municipal Education will complete the investigation, which will be a fair and impartial process that will take several weeks to complete. The process includes reviews, interviews, analysis, and summarization that will be compiled into a final report.

Within Saskatchewan, all municipalities must have a Code of Ethics Bylaw (BYLAW NO.2/21), according to the Municipalities Act. The bylaw sets expectations for how council members should act while carrying out their responsibilities and establishes a review and investigation process when a complaint is received.

More information will be released as the investigation is completed.
